Dear Pastors and Priests,

Greetings from Christ Lutheran Church in Fredericksburg, Virginia, and from the campus of the University of Mary Washington!

One of the joys of serving as a pastor in a college town is the opportunity to get to know students and walk with them through their college careers. As part of my call to Christ Lutheran Church, I serve as the chaplain to students for The House: Episcopal and Lutheran Campus Ministry. The House gathers on Tuesday evenings for food, fellowship, and faith formation and for coffee hour on Thursdays. There are also several opportunities for weekend retreats and Spring Break trips. According to the students, one of the greatest things about The House is the ability to gather seven days a week in our campus ministry house to hang out with friends, study, or find a moment of silence in the chapel room.

If you have students in your congregation who will be attending the University of Mary Washington this year or returning to campus but are not connected with The House (formerly the Canterbury Club), please send me an email with their contact information, so I can invite them to join our community and encourage them to be part of the worshipping life of Trinity Episcopal Church or Christ Lutheran Church. If you have questions, please feel free to email me at anne@christ-lutheran-church.org or call me at 540-373-5087.

In Christ,

Rev. Anne A. Jones

Chaplain, The House: Episcopal and Lutheran Campus Ministry

Pastor, Christ Lutheran Church
